

BONDING LEAVE

A BONDING LEAVE is time taken away from your place of work so you can bond with your new child that has become a part of your family through birth, adoption or foster care. This can be taken any time you need it within the 12 months following their birth, adoption of placement.

How long can you take?

Eligible workers can receive up to 12 weeks of income replacement in a 12 month period. (You may be entitled to an additional 2 weeks if you are incapacitated during pregnancy or need pre-natal care.) It may be taken on a continuous basis, or an intermittent basis with permission from your employer.

Who can take bonding leave?

Each parent is eligible for their own 12 weeks of income replacement and don't have to take it at the same time.
